The Bernard Madoff, Marc Dreier, R. Allen Stanford and other assorted recent financial fraud scandals, combined with the current difficult economic times, has raised the focus on rooting out, investigating and recovering from white collar crime. With Ponzi schemes proliferating, embezzlement cases escalating and acts of employee misconduct becoming commonplace, organizations and their counsel must be prepared to recognize the signs, conduct effective due diligence and investigation and when victimized, take rapid action to recover assets to the extent possible. Christopher T. Marquet, founder and CEO of Marquet International Ltd. will be presenting a discussion on understanding certain types of white collar crime, including investment fraud, embezzlement, kickbacks & bribery and other employee misconduct. This presentation will look at warning signs, trends and profiles as well as discuss a methodology for conducting internal investigations and asset recovery.
